PLAINTIFF'S INITIAL DISCLOSURES
PURSUANT TO FED. R. CIV. P. 26(a)(1)(A)

Pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 26(a)(1), Plaintiff Securities and Exchange Commission (the “Commission” or “SEC”) hereby makes its initial disclosures to Defendants Coinbase Inc., and Coinbase Global, Inc. (collectively, “Defendants” or “Coinbase”) based on information reasonably available to the Commission at this time. By listing the information below, the Commission does not intend to—and does not—waive any applicable privilege, doctrine, or right that may prevent the disclosure of any such information, including, without limitation, the attorney-client privilege, the work-product doctrine, the deliberative process privilege, privileges and protections pursuant to Section 24 of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 [15 U.S.C. § 78x], and any and all other applicable privileges, doctrines, and rights. The Commission expressly reserves the right to supplement or amend each of these disclosures as may become necessary or appropriate.

The Commission also provides these disclosures without prejudice to its right to produce or object to evidence, witnesses, facts, writings, or documents that are identified either in these disclosures or in any later supplements or amendments. The Commission does not necessarily represent or agree that any of the witnesses or categories of documents identified below have relevant or admissible information. As used below, the terms “Investigation” and “Investigative” refer to the Commission staff’s investigation, In the Matter of Coinbase, Inc., conducted under File Nos. HO-14315 and SF-04523.

I. Individuals Likely To Have Discoverable Information That The Commission May Use To Support Its Claims Under Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(a)(1)(A)(i)

Based on information presently and reasonably available to it, the Commission identifies the individuals listed on Attachment A (by name and, if known, by last known address and telephone number) as people likely to have discoverable information that the Commission may use to support its claims against Defendants, unless the use would be solely for impeachment, and the general subject matter of each individual’s relevant knowledge. The Commission also may rely on summary witnesses, designated representatives, witnesses who provide deposition testimony in this litigation, witnesses who provide declarations and/or affidavits and/or who produce documents or other evidence in this litigation, witnesses identified by Defendants as part of their initial disclosures or in discovery, other witnesses identified in discovery, including, without limitation, any expert witnesses, and records custodians of some or all of the listed organizations pursuant to the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure and the Federal Rules of Evidence. Additional individuals may become known as discovery progresses.

II. Documents, Electronically Stored Information, And Tangible Things That The Commission May Use to Support Its Claims Under Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(a)(1)(A)(ii)

Based on information presently and reasonably available to it, the Commission identifies the following categories of documents, electronically stored information, and tangible things in its possession, custody, or control that the Commission may use to support its claims against Defendants, unless the use would be solely for impeachment. All category descriptions are general and summary in nature and are not intended to be complete or exhaustive descriptions or inventories of the documents included in each item.

ATTACHMENT A

Based on information presently and reasonably available to it, the Commission identifies the individuals listed below as people likely to have discoverable information that the Commission may use to support its claims against Defendants, unless the use would be solely for impeachment, and the general subject matter of each individual's relevant knowledge. All subject matter descriptions are general and summary in nature, are not intended to be complete or exhaustive descriptions of an individual's relevant knowledge, and therefore should not be understood to limit the Commission's discovery as to the individuals.
